

FORT GREY.
BRIAN MOSES - LITERACY TRAIL

May 2001 - Year 6 pupils from La Houquette Primary School in Guernsey visited Fort Grey and were taken around by poet Brian Moses.

These are some of the poems they wrote after their visit:

Recipe for Fort Grey

Begin by taking some melted views of a nautical theme.
Whisk this together with a long history of protection and defence.
Next, combine a feeling of unlimited freedom with a wealth of rough granite walls, and whip for a minute.
Pour these two smooth mixtures together, and sprinkle and sprinkle with a flavouring of shipwrecks,
Finally, cook until tenderized, frequently adding pinches of devotion.

Thomas Miller

Fort Grey

First pour in the most beautiful scenery and views of the island,
Then give the place an interesting name,
And make it a landmark,
Sprinkle some of the most exciting history over it,
Sieve a thin spread of tourists and visitors who appreciate it,
You are nearly finished,
Now mix the modern with the past,
Whisk in the feeling you can explore it again and again,
Then caramelize until the visitors and tourists go away with the feeling
they have learnt something,
All you have to do now is keep this place in your heart's memories.

Morgan Le Prevost

A Fort Grey Cake

Firstly sprinkle in a few shining gifts for a crunch,
Next a few fascinating facts for all,
Now crack in a museum to help with the taste,
Sprinkle fishing boats and a sparkling sea,
Finally mix in a shimmering sunset and view,
Cook for 20 minutes and serve for people who love Guernsey.

By Daisy Sherwill

A Recipe for Fort Grey

Firstly pour some historical value, built over hundreds of years
Now mix it with an interesting museum with lots of exciting facts
Sieve in some stunning views all the way around
Add an intriguing reputation known worldwide
Whisk in a gift shop with a wonderful assortment of gifts
Finally put on an island to rise for hundreds of years

By Matthew Roland

Fort Grey!

First of all sprinkle in a lovely view of the roaring sea and soft sand,
Then pour in a bucket of fantastic scenery,
Add in a sieve full of styles,
Next whip in a huge amount of and whisk it into the wonderful museum,
After that throw in a load of magnificent facts,
Beat it up with some old history,
Cook up a constant causeway,
Finally collect a cove of circular walls.

By Kristiane Barlow

Fort Grey

First enter a grand and imposing causeway;
Then blend together some juicy flavours including splendid views.
And the historic shape and features, that only exist at Fort Grey.
Finally whip in some compliments as you leave.

By Jamie Lucas

RECIPE for FORT GREY

Start by sieving some stunning views then beat some fresh atmosphere.
Pour a few fascinating artefacts
Blend four cannons for a powerful taste
Toss and turn some old shipwrecks
Drain some decorational driftwood to sweeten the taste
Finally let simmer for 5 minutes then enjoy.
Bon appetite!

Fort Grey

First put a sprinkle of the sights overlooking the seas, rocks and the countryside.
Then add a pinch of the museum and all the amazing facts inside.
Pour in a teaspoon of special souvenirs from the gift shop.
Beat in a few memories from a long time ago.
Leave to set with a few tourists and there you have it, Fort Grey.

By Jessica Rawlings

Fort Grey

Start by sprinkling on some stunning views (be careful you don't use too little).
After give a cooling of cannons and other weapons.
Then blend in the rock, solid walls with a hint of preservation.
After, add height and size and watch it grow historically.
Then beat in a gift shop and museum and you have a Fort Grey cake!!

Richard Le Conte

Fort Grey Recipe

Firstly add the museum.
Next sprinkle the gifts on evenly.
Blend in the historic adventures.
Whip in the fascinating facts.
Melt in the safety.
Sieve through the tourists.
Pour in 360° of stone and cover in white icing.
Finally, add the soothing sunset.
Bake for 30 minutes and there you have
FORT GREY!

By Sophie Warren

Fort Grey

First throw in a few stunning views,
Next sprinkle on an ounce of gentle atmosphere,
Knead in an amazing museum,
Sieve through several historical cannons,
Whip in some naval wreckage,
Beat in some solid, protective walls,
Sprinkle on some decorative driftwood,
And leave to settle in the mind.

By Jack Farrell

A Fort Grey poem

First sprinkle in the shape of a cylinder,
Next crack in the style of the scenery,
Pour in the memorable museum,
Then put the circular surround around it,
Blend in the rocks and the great gifts from the gift shop,
Grind in the view,
Stir in the guns and cannons,
Finally mix in it all of the future.

By Fiona Trustum

'Cup and Saucer'

Firstly put a cup in the middle of the sea,
Mix a lovely view in a surrounding area,
Next put a saucer on the bottom of the cup,
After that paint it with old age so you get a feeling it ancient,
Get historical things to put in the cup,
Also an outer wall around the saucer,
Then cover your surface where the saucer's left out
With valuable weapons,
After that put a shop near the recipe you have mixed.
Give an island rocks around the surroundings you have made.
Then make houses to fill your beautiful sight.
And finally decorate it seaweed, grass, flowers and others.

Matthew Le Conte